THE SAN JOAQUIN ROAD-MAYOR SUTRO'S

OUTBURSTS-REAL ESTATE IMPROVING.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

of the week has been the steady increase in sul scriptions to the San Joaquin Valley Railroad.

Whether the old sugar millionaire Claus Spreckels was in earnest or not when he started out in his fight against the Southern Pacific Company, he is now in the contest to stay. He has promised to double his subscription of $500,000, and he now advocates taking advantage of the present enthusiasm to raise the whole $5,000,000 required to build and equip the road before incorporating the company. What the effect of this change of plan may be is uncertain, but it is very doubtful whether the full amount can be raised without the aid of large capitalists, who thus far have shown no eagerness to subscribe. Mayor Sutro, who has been loudest in his outcries against what he calls "the railroad octopus," has failed to put up any coin for the competing railroad. It was confidently expected that he would furnish $250,000 at least. Sutre explains his conduct by saying that he has all his money tied up in city and suburban real estate, which he can't sell except at a sacrifice; hence he doesn't feel able to give the road any financial aid. This explanation is received with doubt, and the Mayor's prestige has suffered among those who voted for him as an anti-monopolist. His reputation has also been hurt among conservative people by his violent attack this week at a meeting of the Freeholders upon Irving M. Scott. The lack of self-control which augurs ill for his conduct in any municipal crisis calling for judgment

The great Market Street Rallway Company, which controls nine-tenths of all the cable and electric street railways of San Francisco, has begun active war upon Mayor Sutro's railroad schemes. It has obtained a franchise for building a road out Point Lobos-ave, to the Cliff

House on condition of paying 2 per cent of the gross receipts to the Park Improvement Fund.

This franchise will permit the company to parallel Mayor Sutro's new road, and it will be a

The Freeholders have completed the new charter, and the new organic law for the city has been printed. Whether it will suffer the fate of its two predecessors remains to be seen. The city is now governed under an obsolete system called the Consolidation Act, which has no flexi-bility. The new charter gives the Mayor large powers, but in this concentration of authority and responsibility there is less danger than in the present system of partly elective and partly appointive officials, who cannot be held to any strict accountability for their stewardship. The power of the Mayor to remove for cause any ap-pointed officer is in line with Civil Service Re-form, and forms the best feature of the charter.

The settlement by the Fair children of their oftarrels over their mother's estate was rendered necessary to secure concert of action in their proposed fight against their father's will. Probably in the history of this country no rich man ever left his property tied up in so peculiar a way as Fair did, and public opinion justifies the three children in resorting to any means to break the will, which forms a trust that is as odious to Americans as the English law of en-

For years he was confidential agent of Flood and Fair, and he is, now Mackay's representative in San Francisco. Dey is a walking cyclopedia of fact and anecadge about the flush times in Virginia City and the men who were suddenly transformed from poor miners into millionaires. It is a singular fact that Dey is suffering from the same disease

My God, to Thee," "Saviour, I Come to Thee," "Abide With Me," and "I Heard a Voice from accompaniments. The coffin was placed in a small reception-room to the left of the hallway. On it were two large bunches of lilies-of-the-valley, tied with broad white satin ribbons. It was also entwined with bands of roses, white and red, fastened by loops and clusters of violets. The room was almost filled with flowers sent by the friends

At the end of the services the officiating minister announced that the body would be taken to Woodlawn Cemetery at the convenience of the friends of the dead man. Then a part of the cover of the coffin was removed, and the people present took a last look at the young man. It was said at the house that the burial would take place probably to-day. Whether Fay Templeton was present or not could not be positively learned, although it was rumored that she was in the house, in a room, on the second floor. Some of those present were Thomas F. Barton, Albert King, A. De Cordova, E. S. Chapin, Harry Content, J. M. Mora, and Edward Howell.

To-morrow evening begins the second month of Augustus Pitou's production of "Mme. Sans Gène," at the Broadway Theatre, where the audiences con-tinue to be large. Miss Kathryn Kidder's impersonation of Mme, Sans Gène grows in the popular favor. It has greatly enhanced the reputation of this actress. Mr. Pitou deserves credit for his elaborate and costly production of the play, which is historically correct in every detail.

The revival of "The Major" at Harrigan's Theatre appears to be a decided success. To many in the audiences of the last week "The Major" was entirely new, while to the remainder it was a revival of old memories. Some new faces, of course, are on the stage, but there are old ones, too, and Mr. Harrigan is still playing the title part and Mr. Hanley

That the pantomime "A Dresden Shepherdess," now at the Eden Musée, is popular, is shown by the fact that Mine Pilar-Morin and her company were invited to accompany H.
